

— Introducing — The Shores
— of Port Credit —

New retirement community offers residents an opportunity to live life to the fullest.

An appealing open and animated streetscape is set back from the road so as to make for a spacious walk, enjoying maximum sunlight in front of new patios and retail uses.

Yes, the population is aging. So “we are all going to have to be ever more attuned to our health,” begins Helmuth Strobel, President of The Shores of Port Credit, a unique, planned Continuing Care Retirement Community in west Port Credit.

“The simple truth is that your lifestyle and healthcare options become more important as you age,” Strobel continues. “We conceived our community as offering choice, enabling the new residents to join our club with varying levels of membership that provides a menu of lifestyle environments and support services, including security and healthcare options. We’ll be offering a progression of care that residents can select as they need them at the time.”

For new residents, moving into The Shores of Port Credit might mean carefree adult lifestyle homeownership or a stylish apartment rental. Or it might mean moving into the retirement residence within the community, featuring independent living as well as around-the-clock health services and specialized floors serving the needs of those with memory and movement limitations.

Environmentally conscious townhomes will nicely integrate into the High Street residential neighbourhood. These units will provide a transition for residents who may be moving from detached homes into one of only 17 large townhouses that all enjoy underground parking and their own private elevators.

The new face for an old block will entice renewal elsewhere in the adjacent neighbourhood.

The Shores will revitalize an old strip of retail, automotive and professional services running along the north side of Lakeshore Road West.

The Shores of Port Credit is designed to accommodate Mississauga residents who wish to continue to live life to the fullest in their favourite community as they grow older. This contemporary aging-in-place community will be located on the north side of Lakeshore Road West, adjacent to the Credit Landing Shopping Centre.

The vision for The Shores evolved as a direct result of community input over the past few years. Carefully planned with design features aimed at enhancing the local community street-scape, The Shores of Port Credit will revitalize this part of Port Credit.
